“ I was a young mom with four growing kids and a dwindling paycheck when Brian forever impacted my belief in the goodness of humanity.

After carefully budgeting for the next months meals, I went grocery shopping at our local general store. After I paid for my large basket of items, I remembered I needed a treat for my sons upcoming birthday. I let the clerk know I was running to get one thing and would be right back to pay for it; leaving my basket at the end of the counter while I retrieved the coveted cake mix.

When I got back, my basket full of groceries was gone. The next customer in line took it with theirs and was out of the parking lot before we realized what happened.

I was devastated! That was my entire monthly budget for groceries....gone! Brian was privy to the entire event, and though the grocery store owner offered to replace the items at their expense, Brian INSISTED to repurchase my groceries himself. He took my list and walked with me, ensuring I got every item I needed, even down to the cake mix I left my basket for.

There was not a dry eye in the grocery store because of Brian's generous act of kindness towards a family who really needed it. This was over 20 years ago, and I still think about that moment quite often!
