“ I love you Brian always have and always will. I will always have all of the ups and downs to look back on and cherish. It's very hard for me to write very much on here at the moment. So when I am able to write without soaking my keyboard I will write more. I miss you so much.

“ I've literally known you my whole life. You were probably my best friend in preschool and I loved you to pieces. Though we were not close in our adult lives, I still mourn the Brian I knew. I will always remember you and think happily on the times we spent together, though right now they break my heart. I pray that you rest in peace my friend. With love, Jessi

“ Brian and I spent 5 years of our lives together and had a beautiful baby girl, Braylyn Williams. I will forever hold him in my heart and prayers. Thank you Brian for gifting me with such an amazing little girl. I see you in her everyday, I hope now you can watch over us. I never thought I would be saying my last words on your obituary... Rest In Peace Brian, I am sorry.

“ I'll always remember one Halloween when Brian was dressed as a soldier with camo on his face, up in a tree at my parents house. Thankfully, I managed to capture a picture of it. Brian may not have been any blood relation to our family, but he was family nonetheless. My thoughts & prayers are with Liz, Carl, Paul, & any other family member I haven't met.
