“ Most of my early memories revolve around you and Papaw. My love of country classics, including Randy Travis, came from you. I remember asking you to explain any and everything I saw and I loved our morning bowl of fruit loops with the silly spoons while you would joke about how you were named after a moo cow (which I believed). We would watch your soaps and cmt for hours. I loved singing and dancing around the living room to Marty Stuart and you seemed to get a kick out of it too. Every time I hear a radio contest come on it reminds me of trying to win them with you. I'm sorry I couldn't be around as much as I've gotten older. It's always been easier to hold onto those childhood memories...but you've always been in my heart. Love you Mamaw. <3

“ Nurses get the rare privilege of being there to help people as they come into this world and the honor of holding their hand as they leave it. Every once in awhile you get to take care of someone you know you will never forget, I knew Mollie Horn would be one of those people from the start. I will miss her smiling face and her funny laugh. My thoughts and prayers go out to her family and friends in this sad time. I know she will be greatly missed. Daniel Eubank

“ You started a legacy of love that will pass for many generations to come. I see your tender spirit shining thru the hearts of my children. To many you may have been known as sick or special, to us you were truly Special. God used your sickness to touch so many of us in so many ways. You taught us how to appreciate the small things and value everything. I will always cherish the love and laughter we shared. I'm so thankful that we got to take car rides together Saturday & Sunday both :) I love you so much and I am so thankful to God for being so merciful with you. I always said you were so faithful to Him that He would be merciful in the end as He was. I had the pleasure of being with Momma when she took her last breath. Hospice and the nursing home said she showed no signs of active dying and that she should wake up. God led us to tell her our good-byes and let her know how much she was cherished. I am so blessed to have been lying on the floor next to her bed when she took her last breath. Her last words were " mam, mam, mam." I reached up, held her hand as I told her it's ok and that she could go back to sleep. Less than 10 mins later, she had one deep breath and made her journey. I believe the Mam's that she was referring to were the Angels as they led her home. No more suffering, no more pain.

Momma, I will see you one day.

“ Memories that will last a life time. Our car rides to the lake, ice cream, and singing randy travis. So many memories we shared. I was just a little girl when you came to live with us. I loved everyday coming home from school you were there to say "hello baby". You are such a joy in my life. This is so unreal I can't even believe it. I'm glad your last hours here on earth I got one more kiss from you. I will never forget the feel of your kisses, your laugh, your wonderful sweet smile, your beautiful hands, or your smell. I am going to miss seeing you everyday. But I know I can still talk to you. You taught me so much Grandma. You loved, you smiled, and you never took anything for granted. This is the hardest thing i have ever done but I know youre in a better place. I Bet you are singing Amazing grace up there. I bet youre running with angel's. I know this isn't the end . I will see you again someday. I've got a wonderful guardian Angel. Forever in my heart. I love you baby girl. <3

“ My heart goes out to Tammy, Debbie, and David. My heart breaks for your loss. Faye was always so pleasant to me.. So ready with a smile on her face. That is what I will remember about her. Letting go is never easy, I will keep you all in my thoughts and prayers as you get through this tough time. God Bless.

“ I was so sorry to hear of Faye's death. She was so sweet to me when I was a kid. I know she has been sick a long time. My heart goes out to all of you.
