“ When I first met Pam she was a cute little girl. Then she grew up in to a beautiful young lady. Part of the reason she was so beautiful was because she was beautiful inside and out.

I don't think I've ever heard her say anything bad about anyone or even get mad at anyone. Well maybe I've heard her yell at Tom once.

My point is that the world would be better off with more people like Pam. I will always remember her laughing with a smile on her face.

“ Pam and I met in the 7th grade and very quickly became friends. I soon met her little sister, Lori and her marvelous parents, Max and Sue. From that moment on, I have never met any finer people. The love they have shown me over the years has never waivered. I was reminded of that fact with the passing of our Pam.

The memories of riding to games in the station wagon, the PINTO, the cat that would ride in the car around her neck, fun times at the Goodman house came flooding back. I remembered that Pam and I went to the Sadie Hawkins dance. ( She bought us blue flannel shirts and I wore that thing until it was full of holes). I still think of Pam when I hear an old James Taylor song or a Harry Chapin song. Even though she was younger than me you most often took on the role of big sister for me. I really loved her for that.

We were both part of a wonderful array of people to grow up with and I know we had an absolute blast . We used to talk about those precious memories and amazing times. Unfortunately, as what usually happens, you grow apart and things change as you get older- college, work, families, new friends, all come on the scene. Things change. But always remember a friend is a friend forever and Pam, you are always my friend.

To all the family, I love you all very much and I am truly saddened by Pam's passing. She has found her peace and God will take care of her now. Remember the good, forget the bad, and smile when happy thoughts of our dear Pam cross your mind. That's what I plan on doing.

May God bless us all,
Gene
